SPIRIT OF THE MORNING PRESS The Union cannot believe that Great Britain has issued instructions to her naval commanders to molest our merchant marine, but hopes that the outrages committed will be promptly disavowed by her Majesty's Government, and their perpetrators suitably punished. It announces that suitable measures have been adopted by the President to meet the difficul-· ties complained of.

The Union expresses distrust at the rumors of Mormon capitulation, which are unaccompanied by concurrent advices through official channels; for no confirmation has been received of them by the Government.

The Union, in another article, discusses the relations of the South towards the slave trade, saying:

"If, contrary to all probability, or even possibility, the proposition were ever seriously brought forward in Congress to reopen the slave trade, we are entirely confident that the traffic would again receive even a more uncompromising opposition from the South than from the North, just as it did while the question of abolishing the traffic was formerly before the country."

The Intelligencer, noticing the " Condition of the Treasury," is gratified to learn that, even in the worst aspect of affairs, the Government is likely to be able to carry on its financial operations for the current year with a loan of only half the amount which was reported some weeks ago as likely to be asked for by the Treasury Department.

It is proposed in Canada to exempt members of the press from jury service.

The Executive Communication on the British Outrages.

The President yesterday responded to the resolution of the Senate, by transmitting to that body a number of documents on the subject of British aggressions upon American commerce. We give a summary of the papers : General Cass, writing to Lord Napier under date of May 4th, transmitted to his lordship the copy of a letter from the Collector of the Customs at Savannah, enclosing the statement of the Captain of the "N. B. Borden," by which it appears that an unjustifiable act of violence has been committed against a merchant vessel of the United States, to which the attention of her Majesty's Government is requested, in the confident expectation that the act will be disavowed. and such measures adopted as are called for by the circumstances, and as will tend to prevent the recurrence of similar proceedings hereafter Lord Napier writes to General Cass, May 16th, that he has had the honor to receive the latter's letter. He says he has transmitted copies of General Cass's communication to her Majesty's Government, and to the Commander-in-Chief of her Majesty's forces on the West India station. Mr. Cass, in a letter to Mr. Toucey, dated May 13, 1858, communicates a statement of the Consul General at Havana, relative to aggressive outrages recently committed against a vessel of the United States. Outrages of this nature against our vessels, if longer continued, cannot fail to lead to the most unpleasant consequences. It appears that several British armed vessels are croising on the coast of Cuba, and that our merchant vessels are exposed to vexatious interruption by their interference. It is therefore proper a vessel should he dispatched with instructions to render prompt protection to all American vessels that may need it. The foreible search by cruisers of that Power, cannot be tolerated

Gen. Cass on the 12th and 18th of May writes to the U. S. Minister at London, communicating intelligence of cases of the forcible detention and search of American vessels by British armed ships of war in the Gulf of Mexico and in the adjacent seas, and says, that when all the facts are ascertained, proper representations will be made without delay, to the Government of her Catholic Majesty against this search of American vessels by the naval force of another Power within the territorial jurisdiction of Spain.

The instructions conclude: "The President confidently believes that the British naval offivers, in the adoption of these high-handed measures, have acted without the authority, and have misunderstood the views, of their government. But it is not the less due to the United States that their conduct should be disavowed, and petemptory orders issued to prevent the recurrence of similar proceedings hereafter. You will communicate to the Earl of Malmesbury the earnest expectation of the President that this subject should receive the immediate attention of her Britannic Majesty's government, and that the officers who have been guilty of these outrages should be held properly responsible for their conduct, and that, where pecuniary injuries have been suffered, the interested parties should receive just compensation.

You will also invite the particular attention of Lord Malmesbury to the occurrences at Sagua la Grande, and to the just expectations of the United States that the measures of redress adopted by the British government upon this occasion will be such as to mark with its displeasure the conduct of the officer whose proceedings have given a serious cause of offence to a friendly power, and to prevent a similar interference hereaf-

It appears by a letter from the Secretary of the Navy to the President of the United States that on the 19th of May the United States steamer Fuiten, Capt. Almy, was ordered to cruise actively on the northern coast of Cuba, and to take such measures as may be deemed necessary to protect all vessels of the United States on the of war of any other nation. Orders have also been given for the preparation of the razee Savannah and the brig Dolphin to join the Home Squadron, for the purpose of cruising in the neighborhood of Cuba; and the steam-frigate Wabash, now fitting out at New York as the flag ship of the Mediterranean Squadron, has been directed on her outward passage to show her flay in those waters, and protect at all times the per-sons and property of American citizens.

WASHINGTON NEWS AND GOSSIP.

Ex-PRESIDENT TYLER .- A brief article, de scriptive of the various ex-Presidents of the United States after their service in that capacity, was copied, among other selected articles into the Star a day or two since, to which our attention is drawn for the first time by the communication printed below, which, in explaining its incorrectness in an important particular, does no more than sheer justice to the distinguished statesman to whom it refers:

WASHINGTON, May 19, 1858. To W. D. Wallach, Esq.,

Editor of the Evening Star : Siz: In your paper of the 18th May, in an article purporting to be original with you, headed "The Wealth of our Statesmen," when you come to speak of ex-President Tyler, you say as follows,

"John Tyler is worth fifty thousand dollars. Before he reached the Presidency he was a bankrupt. In office he husbanded his means, and then married a rich wife." I have every reason to believe, from the kind

President Tyler and his family, that this tissue of falsehoods entirely escaped your eye before its insertion in your journal; but, being there, and having gone before your readers, I am forced to ask that you retract it, and also publish this note. John Tyler, before he was P esident, never was a bankrupt. Besides paying, as surety for others, forty thousand dollars, the day never had been, from the day of his manbood, that he had not ample means always at hand to meet every obligation resting upon bim. The real estate he now owns is but a transfer of the real estate he then owned; and the slave property he now owns is the identical slave property he then owned. True, both have largely increased in value; but what their value is I shall not say, either to gratify private or public curiosity. Let it suffice to say, that he will die as he has lived-whether poor or rich—un honest man, and no man's debtor.

John Tyler, as President, followed the example of his great predecessors in that high office from Virginia, and liberally expended upon the public every cent of the salary he received from the public. He paid out of his salary for every-thing he used in the Presidential Mansion, save the furniture he found there, and which was never renewed in his time, through the want of an appropriation from Congress. He paid for his own fuel, his own lights-even to those in the street, his own servants, his own doorkeepers, his own steward, and his own secretary and assistant clerks. How has all this been since, and how is it now?

The man who, among other things, annexed the broad realm of Texas to the Confederacy; who settled the Northeastern Boundary and all our impending foreign difficulties; who opened up our trade with China; who restored a bankrupt Treasury; who rescued the country from a bankrupt condition, attended by universal ruin and disaster in every avenue of trade; who hammered the veto through the skull of the monster bank, and destroyed it forever; who kept and administered in every Department of the Government its entire revenues for four years nearly, without the loss of a dollar by negligence, fraud or force, and without the realization of a cent tohimself or family; who reinvigorated the army, elevated Scott, Taylor, Worth, Wool and Riley to its head, and thus closed the Florida war and held Mexico in awe; who raised the Navy to its highest and noblest mark, and held squadrons in every sea; who established the National Observatory and placed Maury at its head; who reformed the Coast Survey and placed Bache at its head; and who, last, but not least, retrieved the Democratic party from its overwhelming and an-nihilating defeat of 1840, and raised it again to power;-this man can afford to smile, as he does and always has done, at the impotent slander of the hour, reliant on bistory.

John Tyler did singly and all these things. They place him equally above poverty and riches. His family motto is Luxuria et egestas commodis cedant

I have the honor to be, very respectfully yours,

JOHN TYLER, JR. DEATH OF GEN. PERSIFER F. SMITH .- This sad event was duly chronicled in our telegraphic column yesterday, as having occurred on the 16th inst., at Leavenworth, Kansas. Nearly ever since his service in the Mexican war General Smith has suffered with chronic diarrhes, and it is probable that this was the cause of his death. He leaves a widow and an only son-Dr. Howard Smith, of New Orleansthe child of his first marriage. His brother and other relatives reside in Philadelphia. In his demise the country loses an able and gallant officer, and a large circle of relatives and acquaintances will mourn the loss of a valued and excellent friend and most worthy gentle-

Gen. S. was born in Philadelphia, in November, 1793, and was in the 60th year of his age. He was the son of Jonathan Smith, former cashier of the Bank of Pennsylvania, and afterwards of the Bank of the United States. After graduating at Princeton, he studied law under the late Charles Chauncey, Esq., of Philadelphia, and on his admission to practice. removed to New Orleans, where he resided until the period of the Florida war, when he volunteered and served gallantly during two campaigns under General Gaines. It was there that his military talent attracted the notice of Gen. Taylor, and on his recommendation the Governor of Louisiana gave Smith the command of the Louisiana volunteers for services in the war with Mexico. He served under General Taylor in the campaign of the Rio Grande. He was twice brevetted for meritorious conduct, and wore his laurels with the modesty of a true gentleman. No man of his rank in the army better deserved the confidence of the Government and country than

A NEW LOAN.-Yesterday, the Vice President Inid before the Senate a communication from the Secretary of the Treasury in relation to the present condition of the finances. The Secretary recommends that authority be given to the Department to supply deficiencies that may arise by an additional loan not exceeding fifteen millions of dollars, to be negotiated for not more than ten years, at a rate of interest not exceeding six per cent. He does not recommend any measure for increased taxation, and thinks that it would be unwise at this time to attempt a modification of the tariff of 1857, for the reasons given in the annual report to Congress; that is, that sufficient time has not elapsed to test the effects of that act upon the revenue, considering the condition of the country during the period of its operation. The Secretary further expresses the opinion that, in order to meet the current expenditures, it is not prudent to rely upon receipts into the treasury, estimated upon the revival of business.

Biting A FILE. - We have rarely read a more ferocious assault than that evidently from the pen of Dr. Wm. Elder, in the Philadelphi Press of the day before yesterday, directed against Senator Bigler, whose offence is having done yeoman's service, indeed, in consummating the recent happy settlement of the Kansas imbroglio. Few statesmen ever earned a national reputation so distinguished, in so short a time, as Senator Bigler. He may, therefore, afford to become the target at which such venomously malevolent shafts are aimed by such journalists. We congratulate him that his is. indeed, so shining a mark for the opponents of the great policy of the Democratic party.

THE CAPITOL EXTENSION.—As we left the Capitol to-day, the House were voting on a proposition virtually to suspend this work. which was evidently receiving a majority vote. It being utterly impossible that the majority are in earnest in this matter, we shall regard its success as being by no means indicative of a serious determination to stop the work.

THE WATER WORKS .- A fieree onslaught was made in the House this morning on the clause in the Appropriation bill, now under consideration, appropriating near a million of sentiments you have usually avowed towards exdollars for the prosecution of the work on the Government Aqueduct. It however failed of a triumph. The vote was close, the majority being only four.
